

Building Inspections

Sign Size Limitations

Freestanding Sign Limitations Before Structural Engineer is Required

There will be a maximum sign size of 48 square feet at ground level. There is a maximum sign height of 14'. Once the sign reaches this height or exceeds the borders noted on the diagram, a Structural Engineer would be required to design and oversee the installation. . This is a general policy. This does not take into account interior designs of support structures for the signage.